

STRETCH AND CHALLENGE

CHRISTMAS ACTIVITIES

GERMAN

WEBSITES

Blinde-kuh

games

Explore different topics auf Deutsch in a child-friendly format. This website offers resources organized by age. Here, you'll find news, videos, games and even a fun random search button that pulls up a surprising array of fun topics for you to read and listen to. .

This site has activities for slightly older learners: German classics like hangman, more educational spelling games and creative games like a rockslide game where you have to click on a falling rock and then answer a question quickly. Best of all, everything is free.

Hello World

This site offers more than 600 free games and activities online in German. The list is long, from songs to German Bingo, tic-tac-toe and puzzles. Fun matching games with audio are appropriate even for the youngest and newest learners.

Look at this website to find out about Christmas in Germany. Mainly in English, but with some German words and links for further interesting information.

Warning: there are some adverts on the site, but they are for German toys

Christmas Traditions

MORE SITES TO EXPLORE

hamsterkiste.de

Hamsterkiste

This is a very well organised German children's website offering videos, games and different exercises on various school subjects (including English – interesting to see how Germans learn our language!) and topic. Some of the German will be quite advanced, but the visuals are very clear.

A website with many German songs (mainly children's), complete with English and German lyrics so you can sing along!

mamalisa

Mama Lisa's World
International Music & Culture

PLACES TO GO

Deutschland, Österreich oder die Schweiz!! If not, try the Christmas Market in town & see if you can spot any German stalls – and even talk to them in German, if you do!

WHAT TO WATCH

Das Wunder von Bern

This is a real “feel-good” film, which, with sub-titles, anyone would enjoy. Surprisingly, it’s about football, but don’t let that put you off; it’s set in 1954 & is more about families than the game! (Some of you have enjoyed seeing this already at the Tyneside)